

City View ISD Named Google for Education Reference District

Google has named City View ISD as a Google for Education Reference District. There are currently fewer than 110 school districts in the United States (and only 6 in the State of Texas) that have been recognized with this distinction.

According to Google, “Google for Education Reference Districts are districts that demonstrate excellence and thought leadership through the innovative use of technology, including G Suite for Education (formerly known as Google Apps for Education) and Chromebooks, to drive impact and positive learning outcomes.”

The staff and administration at City View ISD strives to create an environment that will push our students to become more productive digital citizens, and give them the tools to succeed in the connected world that we live in today. Part of this vision includes creating a culture of sharing and learning amongst not only students, but also amongst staff and at the district level. Being honored as a Google for Education Reference District will benefit the district, as we will have early access to Google resources, be able to share our story, and collaborate with other districts.

City View ISD implemented G Suite for Education during the 2011-12 school year, and introduced a 1:1 Chromebook program in grades 5-12 during the 2015-16 school year. They have steadily expanded that program to include grades 4-12 with laptop carts available to grades PK-3.
